

Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences Privacy Policy

Last updated: October 19, 2026

This policy explains how the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS) collects and uses personal information through its websites, including acjs.org, our member portal, our career center, and our Annual Meeting site. The ACJS Directory (acjsdirectory.org) has its own policy.

What information do we collect?

- Contact information, such as your name, email address, mailing address, and phone number
- Professional information, such as your institution, position, and student status
- Account usernames and passwords
- Payment information for dues, registrations, and purchases
- Conference submissions, award nominations, and other forms you complete
- Email preferences and membership history

How do we collect it?

You provide most of this information when you join or renew, register for the Annual Meeting, submit a proposal, post or apply for a job, or contact us. We also collect some information automatically through cookies when you visit our websites.

How do we use it?

- To provide membership services, including journal access, newsletters, and the member portal
- To process payments, registrations, and submissions
- To run the Annual Meeting, awards, elections, Sections, and Regions
- To send you news and announcements, which you can opt out of at any time
- To understand how our websites are used and improve them

Who do we share it with?

We share information with companies that provide services to ACJS, such as our membership, website, payment, conference, and career center platforms and our journal publisher. They may use it only to provide those services. We share information with ACJS Sections and Regions you join, and with ACJS officers and committees when needed to conduct ACJS business. Presenter names and affiliations appear in the Annual Meeting program.

Our membership list includes members' names, titles, email addresses, phone numbers, and work addresses. It is available on request to institutional members once per membership year, and may be provided for a fee to individual members and outside organizations. You can choose not to be included when you join or renew, or at any time by emailing manager@acjs.org. We do not otherwise share your information with outside organizations.

Your rights

You may ask us to provide a copy of your personal information, correct it, or delete it. You can also update most of your information yourself by signing in to the member portal. If we delete your information, you may lose access to member benefits. We will respond to requests within 30 days.

Cookies

Cookies are small files that websites place on your device. We use them to keep you signed in, remember your preferences, and understand how visitors use our sites through analytics tools. You can set your browser to refuse cookies, but some features may not work as a result.

Other websites

Our websites contain links to other sites. This policy applies only to ACJS sites, so please read the privacy policies of any other site you visit.

Changes to this policy

We review this policy periodically and will post any updates on this page.

Contact us

Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences
5166 County Line Road, Suite 415, Lakeland, FL 33811
manager@acjs.org | (301) 446-6300

ACJS Directory Privacy Policy

Last updated: October 19, 2026

The ACJS Directory is operated by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (ACJS). This policy explains what information the Directory holds and how we use it.

Information in the Directory

The Directory lists justice-related degree programs at U.S. colleges and universities. Each listing includes program details and professional contact information for a program contact, such as name, title, work email, and work phone, gathered from public institutional sources and from programs themselves. We publish this information on the Directory and make Directory data available to organizations such as publishers, researchers, and vendors that serve higher education.

If you are listed, you can ask us to correct your entry or to leave your contact information out of data we share in the future. Use the Update Request Form on this site or email us.

Information from website visitors

If you use our contact form, update form, or email sign-up, we collect what you submit, such as your name and email address, and use it to respond to you or send the updates you requested. We do not sell visitor information. You can unsubscribe from our emails at any time.

Cookies and advertising

We use cookies to measure site traffic, and you can accept or decline them through the banner on our site. The Directory may display advertising and sponsored content, sold on our behalf by our advertising partner. Ads may use cookies or similar tools so that our advertising partner and advertisers can count how often ads are viewed and clicked. If you click an ad, the advertiser's website may collect information about you under its own privacy policy. We do not give advertisers the information you submit to us through our forms.

Changes to this policy

We review this policy periodically and will post any updates on this page.

Contact us

Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences, Attn: ACJS Directory
5166 County Line Road, Suite 415, Lakeland, FL 33811
acjsexecutivedirector@acjs.org | (301) 446-6300